

January 9, 1900; 124 years ago

Olympic Stadium, Rome

Head Coach

Maurizio Sarri

Società Sportiva Lazio, commonly known as Lazio, is a professional football club based in Rome, Italy. The club was founded in 1900 and plays its home matches at the Stadio Olimpico, which they share with city rivals AS Roma. Lazio's colors are sky blue and white.

Lazio has a storied history in Italian football, with multiple Serie A titles, Coppa Italia wins, and Supercoppa Italiana triumphs. The club has also found success in European competitions, including winning the Cup Winners' Cup.

Paolo Di Canio

Di Canio, an enigmatic forward, is considered a legend at Lazio for his skill, passion, and memorable moments on the pitch. He was adored by fans for his flair and competitive spirit during his time at the club.

Giorgio Chinaglia

Chinaglia, a prolific striker, left a significant mark on Lazio's history with his goal-scoring prowess and leadership on the field. He played a key role in the club's success and is revered as a legendary figure.

Alessandro Nesta

Nesta, a world-class defender, is remembered for his stellar performances at Lazio, where he showcased his defensive acumen and tactical intelligence. He is regarded as one of the best defenders in the club's history and enjoyed a successful career both domestically and internationally.